

TUDOR & STUART SEAFARERS

Dr James Davey

In 2018, the National Maritime Museum in London opened a new gallery that sought to tell the story of England's maritime emergence in the early modern era.

In this talk, the lead curator of the gallery, Dr James Davey will talk about his experiences working on this display, .

With the 400th anniversary of the Mayflower voyage almost upon us, he will also discuss some of the issues that arise when presenting sometimes complex and controversial histories to a wide audience.
